

Concerned about Glasgow's built heritage? Do you want to be part of the solution?

Join our board and help us bring Glasgow's history to life

Glasgow Building Preservation Trust – as the name suggests – is a charity which rescues and re-purposes historic buildings across Glasgow.

We are currently celebrating 40 years of working throughout the city, returning buildings at risk back to their communities.

From The Briggait, to Castlemilk Stables, the city's blue police boxes and Kelvingrove Bandstand. Whether you know it or not, you are never far away from one of our successful regeneration projects.

You might know about us already, but you might not know that we also introduced Doors Open Days to the UK as part of the City of Culture celebrations in 1990 and still run the much-loved Glasgow Doors Open Days Festival every September, providing free access to historic buildings and exclusive talks, walks, tours and other experiences.

We believe deeply that heritage and history are for everyone and work hard to help Glasgow folks remember and celebrate their city's stories.

We are governed by a board of volunteer trustees, and we are now looking to add to our board.

Could you help us do more, reach more people or save more buildings?

We'd particularly like to hear from people with skills and experience in

- Fundraising, sponsorship and philanthropy
- Marketing, branding, press, PR and communications
- Community Engagement and Audience Development
- Sustainability and environmental good practice
- Equality, Diversity and Inclusion good practice

We're also very keen to encourage more diversity on our board and applications from young people, women and people from ethnic backgrounds would be very welcome.

If you are interested, please get in touch with David Cook, Director at david@gbpt.org .